

Disclaimer of warranty and liability

We do not sell a marketable product and have not taken a market price as a basis, but rather a compensation for the development costs incurred by us. You acquire the product for the purpose of your own tests, investigations, inspections, etc., but not to use it for yourself or for your customers or to resell it. The product is not yet ready for the market. You therefore acknowledge that we do not accept any liability for defects in the product. Neither do we assume any other liability, e. g. for a specific use of the product or for application-related advice. Rather, you alone and on your own responsibility decide on the use of the product, the addition of further additives and/or the development of new formulations, which may have to be produced by physical parameters such as tempering, shearing, compression. In doing so, you must observe the safety data sheet which is enclosed with the delivery.

Status: March 2020

